A(2024·徐州鼓楼期末)

Tom plays with his red pencil. He isn't listening when his teacher talks about history.

Tom loves history, but he is thinking about something else today. It is a Friday in October. The weather outside is sunny and warm. Tom is excited for the weekend to begin.

It is 5 p. m. The bell finally rings. The students begin packing their schoolbags.

"Not so fast," Mrs Brown comes in. "Before you go home, I have a special notice."

Tom is nervous because special notices usually mean more homework. He wants to play ball games with his friends this weekend.

"Boys and girls," says Mrs Brown, "we are going to have a spelling bee(拼写比赛) next Friday. There will be a winner from our class. Then the student will go on to be against other students in our school."

"A spelling bee?" Tom smiles. He loves English and he is good at spelling words. Maybe he is not the best speller, but he will give it a try. "All I need to do is practice," he says to himself. "I have a whole week to prepare. I have a chance, but I'll have to work hard. Now I know what to do this weekend!"

B(2024·南通启东期末)

"Mum, I'm bored," said Jason. "There is nothing to do." "You can clean your room," said Mum. "That's not fun." It was only the second week of summer vacation. It was still too cool to go to the pool, and Jason was tired of watching TV. His friends were away on vacation, and even his dog, Riley, was lazy.

Mum was getting ready to go down town to the food kitchen to help out. Every Wednesday and Saturday, she volunteered to serve(服务) lunch to people that weren't as lucky as Jason. "Why don't you come with me to the food kitchen and help out?" Mum asked. "I don't know anything about working at a food kitchen," said Jason. "You just watch me, and then you will see how to serve the food," said Mum.

It was time to go, and Jason was excited to try working in the food kitchen. He watched his mum put some turkey and some mashed potatoes on a plate. She then passed the plate to the next lady, and she put some green beans and bread on the plate. "I can do that," thought Jason. One of the volunteers left early, so Jason took over her spot in the serving line. He was in charge of(负责) putting salad on the plates. He served twenty-five people that day. After the kitchen closed, Jason and his mum stayed to clean up. "That was great!" said Jason.

Jason was so excited and really enjoyed his day at the food kitchen. He couldn't wait to get home and tell his dad about how much fun he had. "Not only did it give me something to do, but I felt so amazing doing it," Jason told his dad. "Jason, that was a nice thing you did today."

Jason went to bed that night thinking about the food kitchen. "I am going to help out again," he thought. Jason made some new friends, and he didn't even know they lived so close to him in town! The best part was how good Jason felt inside.

1. How often did Jason's mum volunteer in the food kitchen?

A. Every day.	B. Twice a week.
C. Three times a week.	D. Every summer vacation.
2. What does the underlined word "spot" in Paragraph 3 probably mean?

A. Place.	B. Time.	C. Money.	D. Food.
-----------	----------	-----------	----------
3. What did Jason do after the kitchen closed?

A. He did some cleaning.	B. He served the food to people.
C. He made some new friends.	D. He went swimming with his dad.

Every week, Brad's parents give him $12. It is not a gift. In fact, Brad makes that money himself. Each day, Brad takes out the rubbish, does the dishes and walks the family dog.

The problem is that Brad's money goes away so quickly. Brad buys hundreds of toys. When he wants to go to the movies with friends, he can never cover a ticket. The money seems to burn a hole(洞) in his pocket.

One day, Brad's mum says to him, "You should make a budget."

"What's that?" asks Brad.

"It's a plan of how you spend your money. You put the money into different parts for different kinds of things, like toys and snacks. You spend only as much as your budget allows(允许). In that way, you're sure to have money for different things," says his dad.

"Sounds great," says Brad. "Will you help me make one?"

Then, they put the money into different parts for snacks, toys, movies and books. There are also two special parts, one for helping others and the other for Brad's savings.

From that day on, Brad always has enough money. At the end of the year, he gives away $80 to the old people's home. Helping those in need makes Brad feel good. He then uses some of his savings to buy a small robot. That makes him feel good, too.

April Fool's Day is a celebration that takes place in different countries around the world. It is on April 1st every year and is a day when many people play tricks(把戏) and jokes on each other.

One April Fool's Day, a reporter in England said that there would be no more spaghetti because the farmers in Italy had stopped growing it. Many people ran to supermarkets to buy as much spaghetti as they could. By the time people knew that the story was a trick, all of the spaghetti across the country had been sold out. In another trick a TV show in England reported there was special water. They said this water would help people lose weight(减肥).
